tained the whole amount of his personal estate. I desired him to empty it upon the desk, and forth came a medley of school boy treasures: rings, slate-pencils, a ball, colored India rubber, paper-boats; a top, and among the rest, a fly-box, containing a most unfortunate prisoner, who, without judge or jury, had been summarily condemned—his wings stripped from his back, and he hanged at hair rope on an appropriate pine-wood gallows, which my friend had manufactured for the occasion.

The other was an awkward, lumpy, overgrown creature, with a pair of green eyes, that looked like a covey. His hair stuck out straight on every side like a coat brush; he had a huge nose that occupied a third of his face, and he spoke with a cracked voice that had as little melody in it as the filing of a saw. He sat upon the bench with a little animation as if he had been made out of putty; and though he did not answer any question, yet he exhibited no other sign of grief than might have been detected in a yawning that opened a mouth of most appalling dimensions.

Now, mark the caprices of fortune. Thirty years have gone with the wind. I have taken an interest in watching the progress of my little class. The last-mentioned grew up into poet. He has written some of most delightful stanzas I ever read. They breathe a soul of the highest nature, a heart stored with all that ennobles and sweetens life. The dunces whom I first examined, at this instant holds an office in the service of the United States, where his knowledge of human nature, and his powerful talents, have made his name familiar to every year, as his praises will be to future generations. He in whom I found nothing to distinguish him from common boys but his slovenly appearance, is now one of the neatest and wealthiest merchants in the city, and universally beloved for his intelligence and virtue; and the other, whose sweet face and brilliant mind won my affection immediately and awakened the liveliest hopes of his future eminence, sleeps in the grave.

The Progress of the Republic.

Says an exchange: In the whole history of the world, there is nothing that will compare with the rise, progress and success of the United States. Among the nations of Asia and Europe, the inhabitants double only once or twice during a century. In some of the United States the population doubles every five years. In the way of business we are also a peculiar people—the productiveness of our soil even outstripping that of our women. Let us look at some of the facts. In 1793, the whole number of States was 15. We now boast of 31, which number, in less than two years, will be increased by the annexation of Canada, Cuba, Sonora, Lower California, Hayti and the Sandwich Islands; that what is now 31 will be 40. Whoever lives to see the year of our Lord 1876 will see the American Union extending from the North Pole to South America. Mexico will be represented at Washington, while Yankee Custom Houses will be as well known in Central America as they are in New York and Massachusetts Bay. The population of the United States in 1793 was a little over 3,000,000. It is now a little over 23,000,000. The population of Boston in 1793 was 18,000; it is now 140,000. The population of New York in the former year was 33,000; it is now over half a million! Baltimore in 1793 contained a population of 13,000. Baltimore now boasts of a population of 170,000. Philadelphia, in 1793, contained a population of 42,000. Her population now is near by 500,000.

In 1793 the receipts into the National Treasury only amounted to a little over five millions of dollars. They now amount to about sixty millions. In 1793 the income of the whole country amounted to thirty-one millions of dollars. The present year they will amount to near two hundred millions. In 1793 our exports brought us in twenty-six millions. The exports of 1854 will amount to nearly two hundred millions. In 1793 our shipping amounted to five hundred and twenty thousand tons. Our shipping now measures over-there and a half millions of tons. In 1793 the area of the United States was eight hundred and five thousand square miles. Our square miles now amount to over three millions. In 1793 we had only seven light houses on all our lakes, rivers and coasts; we have now three hundred and seventy-two. In 1793 our post offices only numbered two hundred and nine; we have now over twenty-one thousand. In 1793 the number of miles of post roads in the United States was five thousand six hundred and fifty-two; we have now one hundred and seventy-eight thousand miles!

In 1793 the revenue of the post office amounted to one hundred and four thousand dollars. The present revenue is over five millions of dollars. So much for these matters; now let's turn our attention to internal affairs. Previous to the year 1800, some eight or ten keel boats of twenty to twenty-five tons each, performed all the carrying trade between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. In 1802, the first government vessel on Lake Erie. In 1811, the first steamboat, "the Orleans," was launched at Pittsburgh. In 1825, the waters of Michigan were first plowed by the keel of a steamboat, a pleasure trip to Green Bay, being planned and executed in the summer of that year.

In 1832, a steamboat first appeared at Chicago. At the present time the entire number of steamboats running on the Mississippi and Ohio, and their tributaries, is more probably over than under nine hundred and sixty thousand—larger number of steamboats than England can claim, and a greater steam commercial marine than that employed by Great Britain and her dependencies. Again,

Please give this news place in your paper and oblige G. W. JULIAN, Centerville, Nov. 1, 1854.

"The Madison Courier calls upon his union confederates not to claim the election of Indians as a whig victory, and asserts that the basis of such a whig victory will drive thousands of democrites from the union party."

"Mr. Parker, with an eye to the U. S. Senate, made a political fusion. Anti-Nebraska Abolition, Know Nothing speech yesterday. Come come, Sammy—you are overboard. Where is Henry S. Lane? Who knows where he goes and who his next destination?"

"The fusions can't crowd the short

"As we predicted the other day, the Whigs and Know-Nothings in Pennsylvania, are in favor of abolishing the Canal Board. The Board is composed of Democrats. If abolished, and a Board of Superintendents appointed by the Governor is established in its stead, they will have control of the public works and the appointment of the numerous important and subordinate officers and employees."

Whether or not the "Democratic Know Nothings" will be satisfied to be so divided, is a matter, as yet, of uncertainty. Perhaps they will be content to see the faction and secret organization of which they are members triumph emphatically over the "outside Democracy." The last paragraph we quote, in substance, from the Pittsburgh Union:

"Democratic Know Nothing" is not Democrat at all, and affiliates in every sentiment with that party or combination which opposes the Democratic party. So far from believing that they might be the victims of a deception and cheat, we think they would be even worse than our old but open political enemies, and would be the prime movers in any attempt to overthrow the power of the Democratic party. Do they not believe that to the visitors belong the spoils?

The "Democratic Know Nothings"—we mean those Know Nothings who have professed to be Democrats—have proved themselves even more unscrupulous than our political foes, the whigs. They have not only combined against us, but have proved traitors to the Democratic party and its principles. We have nothing to expect from them, but proscription of the worst dye. We judge them by their past treason and have no confidence in them. If it is practicable by the most unprincipled means, to turn Democrats out of office, they will be in for it. We can not give them the credit for honesty which some of our brethren of the press concede to them. They are the most unprincipled of all our foes, and do not deserve the consideration at our hands, which we yield to visitors belonging to the visitors?

We judge them by their past treason and have no confidence in them. If it is practicable by the most unprincipled means, to turn Democrats out of office, they will be in for it. We can not give them the credit for honesty which some of our brethren of the press concede to them. They are the most unprincipled of all our foes, and do not deserve the consideration at our hands, which we yield to visitors belonging to the visitors?

The "Democratic Know Nothings"—we mean those Know Nothings who have professed to be Democrats—have proved themselves even more unscrupulous than our political foes, the whigs. They have not only combined against us, but have proved traitors to the Democratic party and its principles. We have nothing to expect from them, but proscription of the worst dye. ### Circular.

OFFICE OF AUDITOR OF STATE, Indianapolis, Nov. 1, 1864.

To correct an erroneous impression, entertained by many persons, that the holder of notes of the Stock Banks, having then protested thereby acquires a priority in the payment, the undersigned deems it his duty to state that such is not the fact. In case of the winding up of any Bank under the statute, the notes not protested, are placed on the same footing as those which have been protested, and a dividend of the assets will be made pro rata.

Holders of notes should also bear in mind that the amount of the dividend would be essentially diminished by the costs and fees of protest, and expenses of sale of assets.

The undersigned has also determined, that in discharging his duty to all the creditors of any bank which may be forced into liquidation, he will not proceed to offer any of the assets of such Bank in the market, until after at least sixty days notice in New York, London, and Paris, so as to ensure the largest and best price for the securities, and not then, if in his opinion, the ultimate interests of all concerned will be promoted by a further extension.

He is, also, authorized to exchange the State Stocks deposited in his office as collateral by several of the Banks, at par for their circulation, when presented in sums of not less than one thousand dollars.

JOHN P. DUNN,
Auditor of State.

Moneys.

We clip the following from the Cincinnati Daily Gazette of yesterday :

The past week has not marked any improvement in Money matters. Parties who are necessitated to borrow continue to be pretty hard pressed, and those who have money to lend experience no difficulty in obtaining high rates of interest—ranging from 1½ to 3 per cent. per month. Some parties, however, who have surplus capital, are granting temporary loans to first-class parties at 12 per cent. per annum. The Banks and Bankers are doing very little, and this is confined almost entirely to parties whose paper they already hold. New applicants for loans receive cold treatment. Confidence is still weak and unsettled. The result of the Manchester and Outoot failures tends to prolong the feeling of distrust that has prevailed for a week or two past.

Currency continues in a very limited supply. The Ohio and Kentucky Banks, and the State Bank of Indiana, are still contracting rather than expanding, and this must continue to be the case with all prudent Banks so long as Exchange keeps up. Any evidence of expansion just at this time, is an evidence of imprudence. We have no new feature to notice with reference to the Indiana Free Banks. The paper is not taken in trade, but there are more purchasers for it than heretofore. The statement of the Auditor published in another place, has increased confidence as to its ultimate value; but no person purchases it with a view to circulating it. The work of retiring continues to progress at Indianapolis, and the Auditor advises us that forty to fifty thousand dollars is being daily converted into Eastern Exchange.

The market for Eastern Exchange advanced on Saturday to 11-14 1/2 prem, but it was dull yesterday at those rates, and outside sales were made at a decline of 1-4 for Banker's Checks.

"The Bank of Hallowell, Maine; Ship Builders Bank, Maine; and Brunswick Bank, Maine, have been discredited by the Suffolk Bank, Boston; The Lewis Co. Bank of New York has failed. The President of the Farmers Bank, of Saratoga Co., N. Y., contradicts the rumor of the failure of that Bank. An unfavorable rumor has been circulated here with reference to the notes of the Trans Allegheny Bank of Virginia. The notes of the Bank of Kanawha are still refused by some of our Banks. This Bank is strongly endorsed by parties in Virginia, but some of our Banks are determined to do nothing calculated to give credit to any Bank, that is not good beyond probable contingency, and considering the late heavy losses sustained by the community from Bank failures, this is certainly a laudable act. The struggle should be kept tightly drawn against all Banks, the soundness of which are doubtful.

TELEGRAPHIC.

TELEGRAMS FROM TEXAS.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.

By mail we have Texas advices to the 22nd from Galveston, to the 21st from Houston, and the 12th from San Antonio. Major Emily was in San Antonio on the 12th, arranging a company as fast as possible to proceed to New Mexico, on the boundary Commission.

The Houston Telegraph says: "We hear

nothing further of Major Walker or King and the $200,000, which was to have been paid on the 8th inst, at this place, and there are now only twelve days left, in which to save the present contract; and if the money does not reach here next week, the great Texas

Railway contract, entered into by these genlemen, must fall to the ground." The probability is that owing to the great stringency of the money market, neither Walker or King

could raise the funds."

The yellow fever was still prevailing at Houston and Galveston.

Some Mexican filibusters had been arrested at Houston.
